Allison Caputo is a special counsel in our Family team, having joined Barry.Nilsson.'s Brisbane office as a lawyer in 2014.

'I like the fact that family law is about people, which means you can build a relationship with your client.'

Allison specialises in:

- Divorce
- Property settlements
- Parenting and financial matters
- Child support
- Domestic violence

'My practice has a great mix of both parenting and property matters, which I really enjoy. I particularly like the commercial nature of property matters. Family law covers so many different aspects; it really does encompass all areas. This, coupled with the broad range of clients, means that no two cases are the same.'

Allison has a Bachelor of Arts Degree and Diploma in Law, as well as a Graduate Certificate of Legal Practice and Master of Applied Law (Family). She is also holds Specialist Accreditation in Family Law from the Queensland Law Society.

Allison is a member of the Family Law Practitioners Association of Queensland, the Family Law Section of the Law Council of Australia, the Queensland Law Society and the Tax Institute of Australia.

In 2017 Allison was recognised by Doyle's Guide as a Rising Star in Family Law.
