"The culture of the firm and the quality and variety of the legal work I was exposed to during my studies enticed me to aspire to continue and progress my career within the firm."

Demi advises a range of clients including insurers, insureds, underwriters and brokers in the areas of:

- Personal injury
- Public and product liability
- Professional indemnity

She has a particular interest in personal injury matters involving motor vehicle accidents and catastrophic injuries.

"I enjoy the hands on aspect of personal injury matters. They require an inquisitive, critical, practical, creative and technical mind. Because no injury and individual is the same, the interplay between complex medical concepts and the law is fascinating."

Demi holds a Bachelor of Laws (Honours) and a Graduate Diploma of Legal Practice. She is the secretary of the Tasmanian Women Lawyers committee and is a member of the Southern Young Lawyers committee.
