Richard is a solicitor in our Insurance and Health team and is based in the Brisbane office.

Richard specialises in:

- Public liability
- Workers compensation
- Dust diseases claims

His experience includes defending litigated and non-litigated compensation claims for large self-insured corporations.

“Being able to work with our self-insured clients provides me with a variety of different opportunities and challenges to broaden my knowledge and to ultimately provide our clients with the best service.”

Prior to joining BN, Richard worked at a small generalist firm where he advised on a wide variety of matters involving different areas of law. This experience has given him the knowledge to draw on a broad range of skills when working on insurance matters.

“I believe the first step to providing clients with the best service, is to remember that every client has different commercial objectives, as such there is no one size fit all approach.”

Richard holds a Bachelor of Laws, a Bachelor of Commerce and a Masters of Laws.
